Our Forever Is Upon Us,

Our Days Are Here

If We Are To Be All That We Dream,

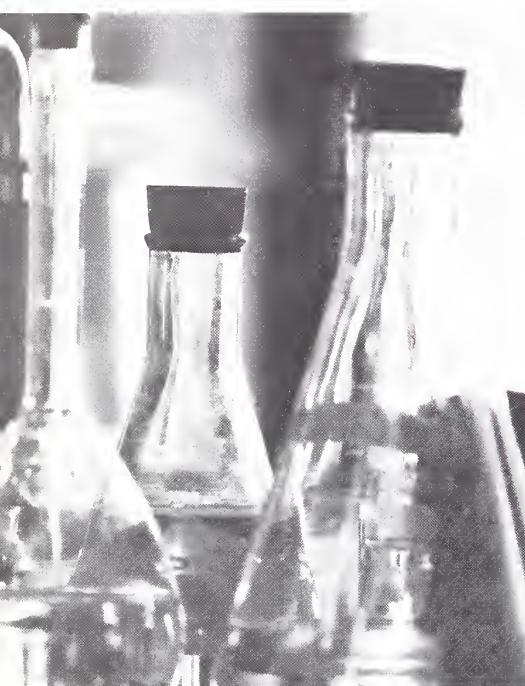

Our Time Is Now

If There Are Answers,

I Must Question

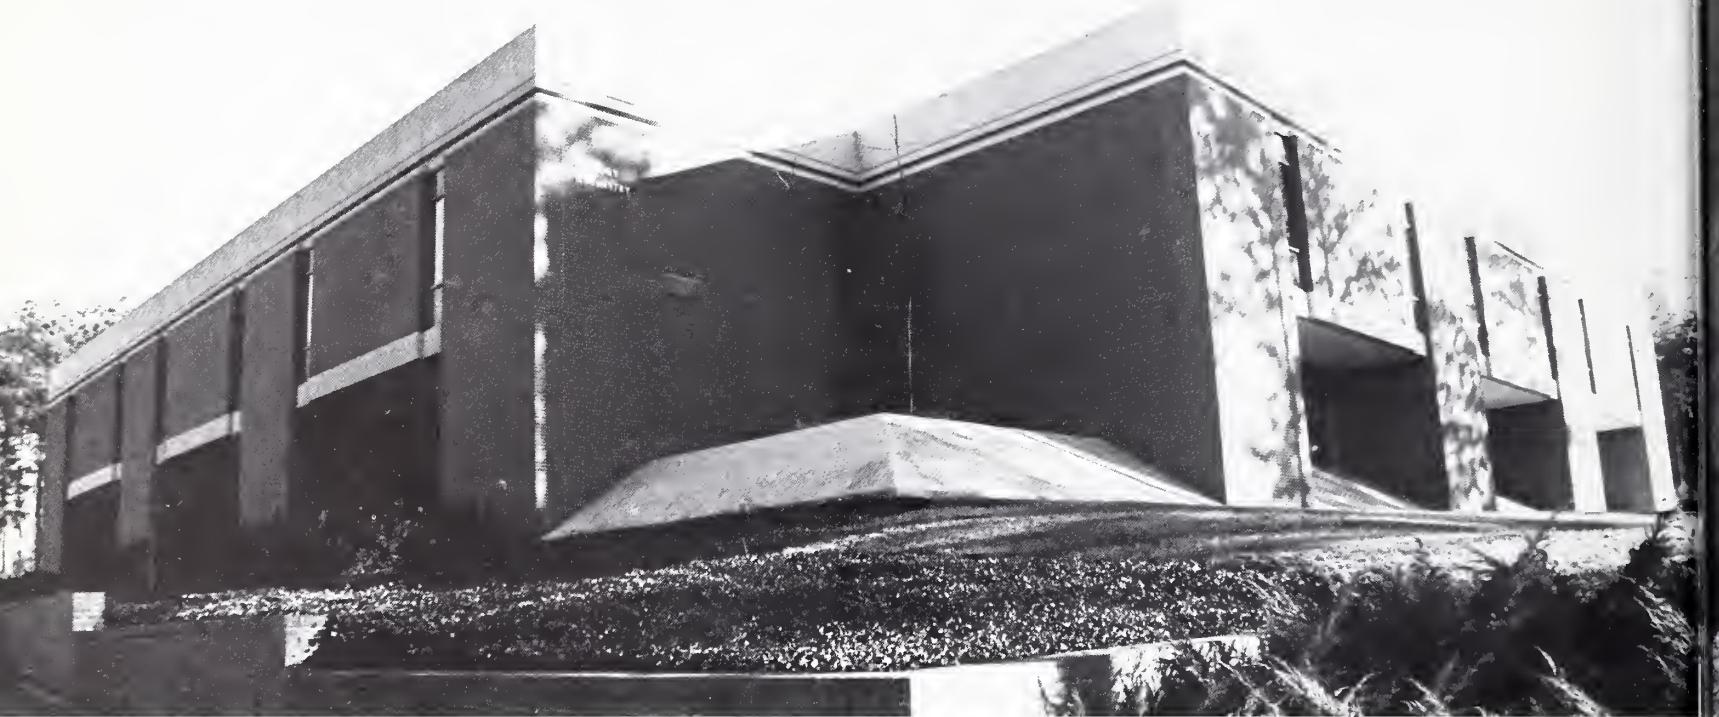

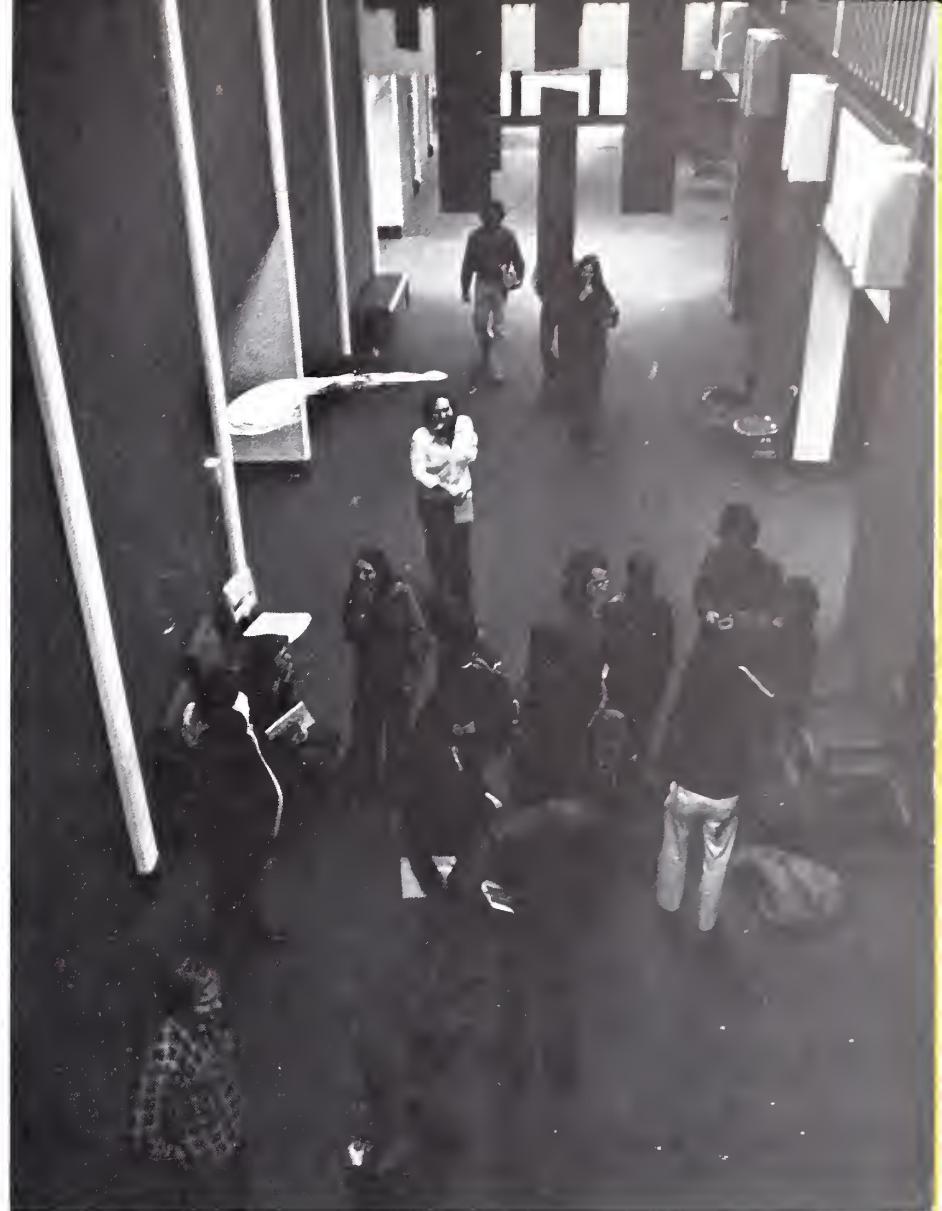

If There Is Leisure, I Must Ramble

If There Are Truths,

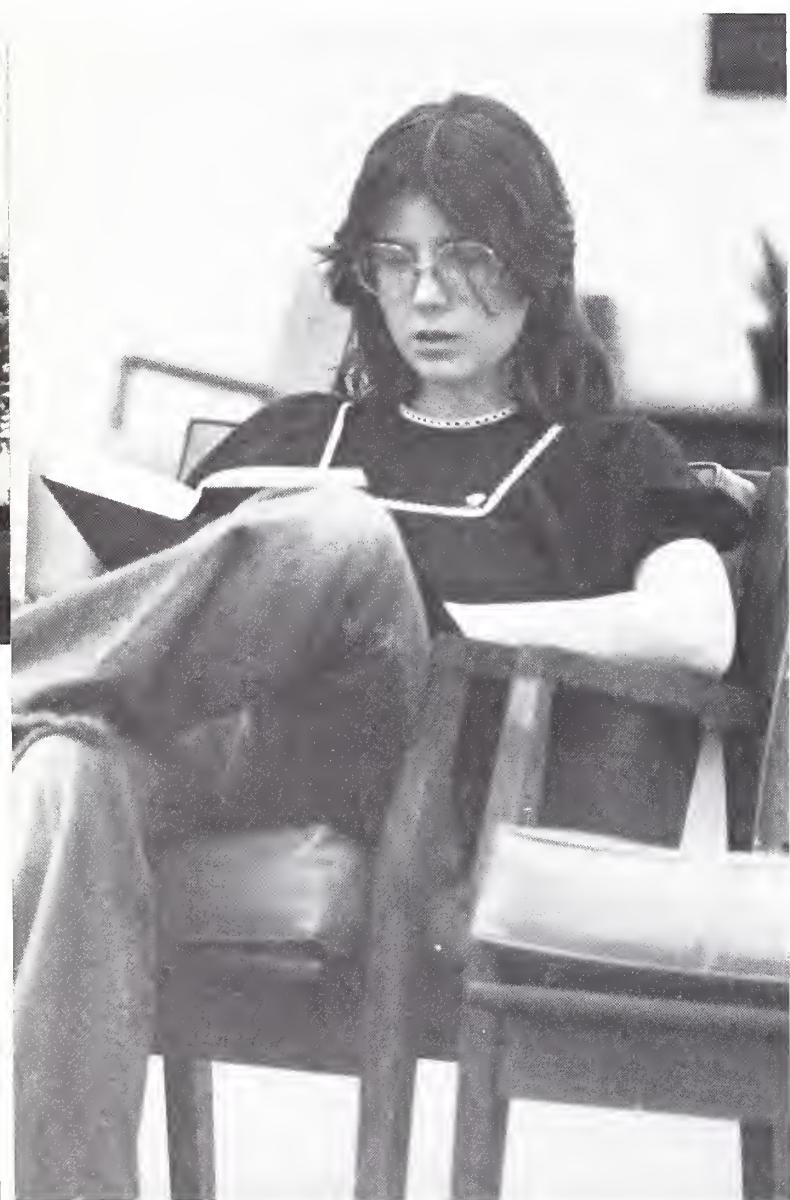

I Must Accept

And I Must Always Laugh

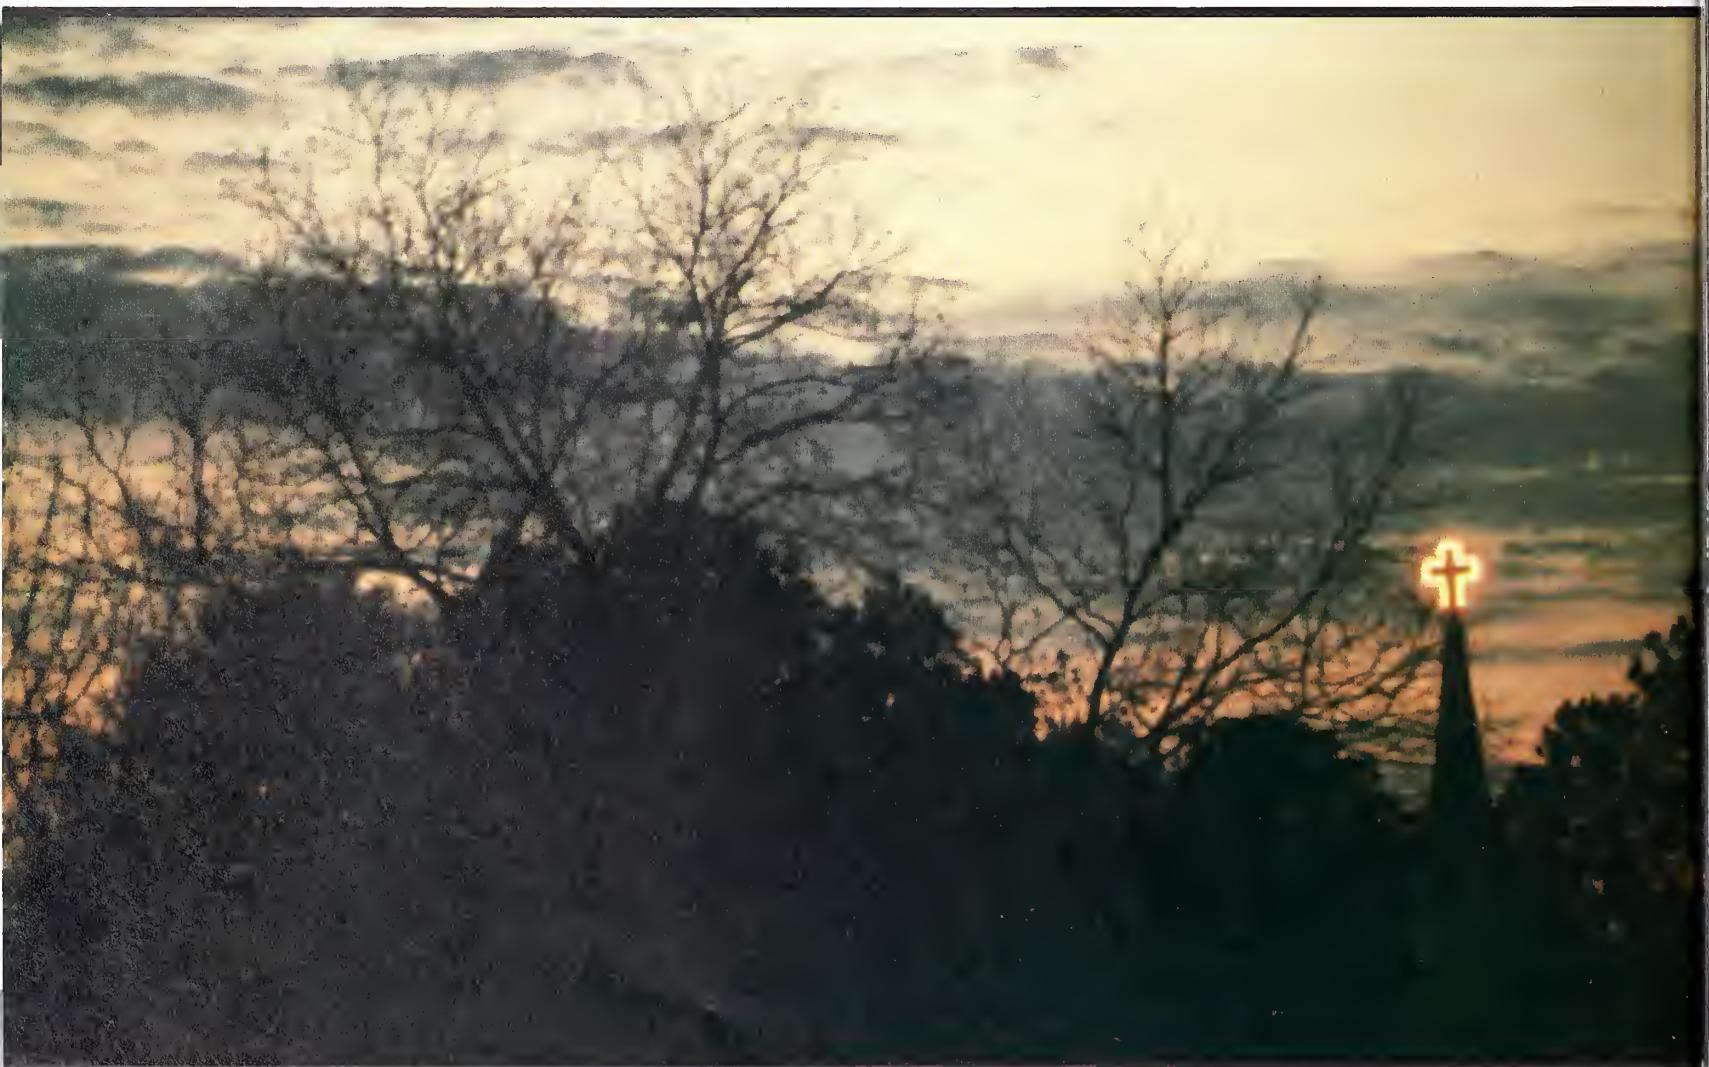

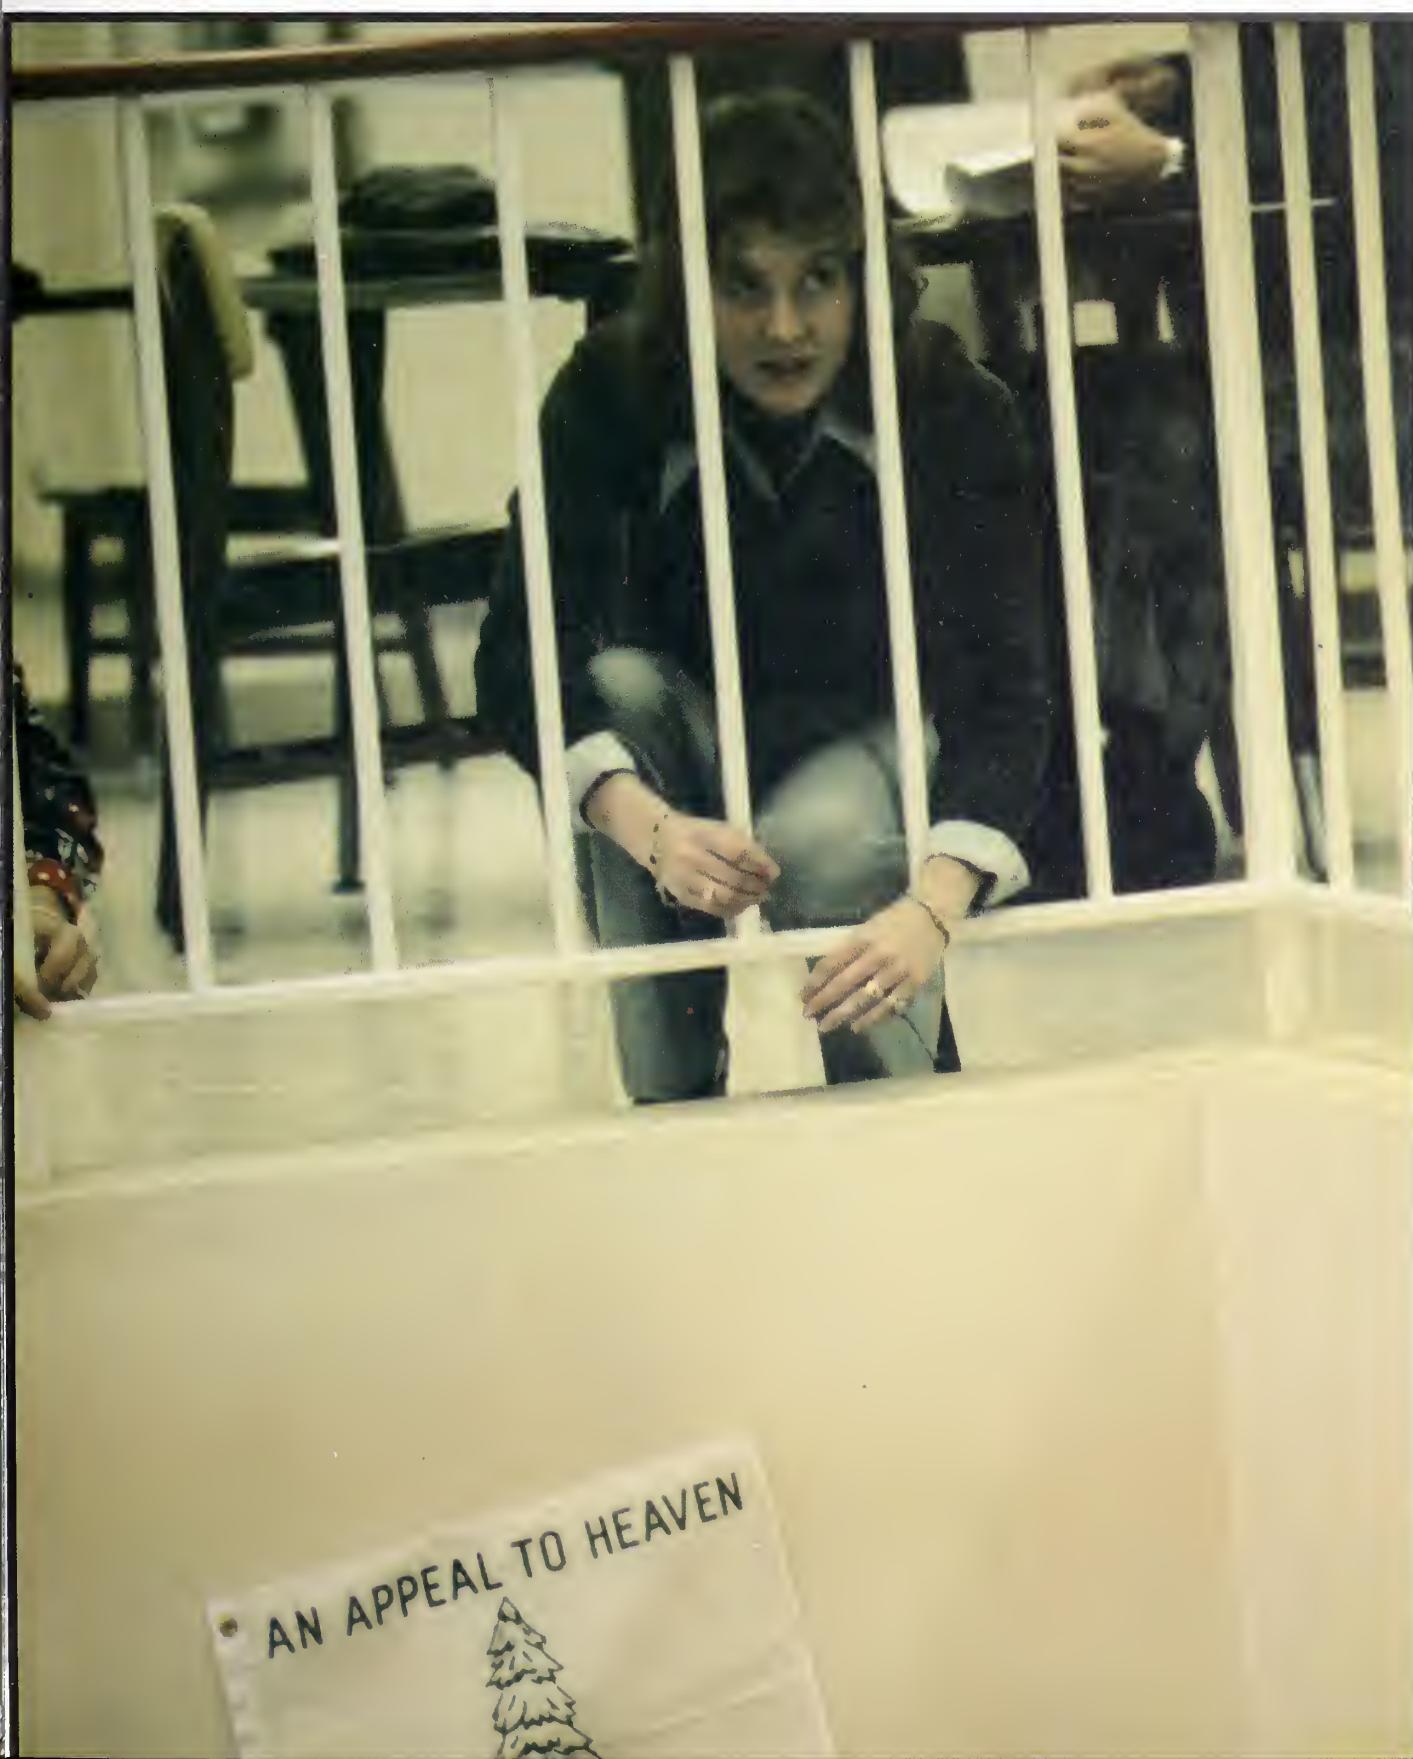

I Must Doubt

So As To Know I Must Understand

Understanding That
Faith in Myself
Brings Faith to This Good That I Believe

I Will Take Myself
To The Places In My Mind

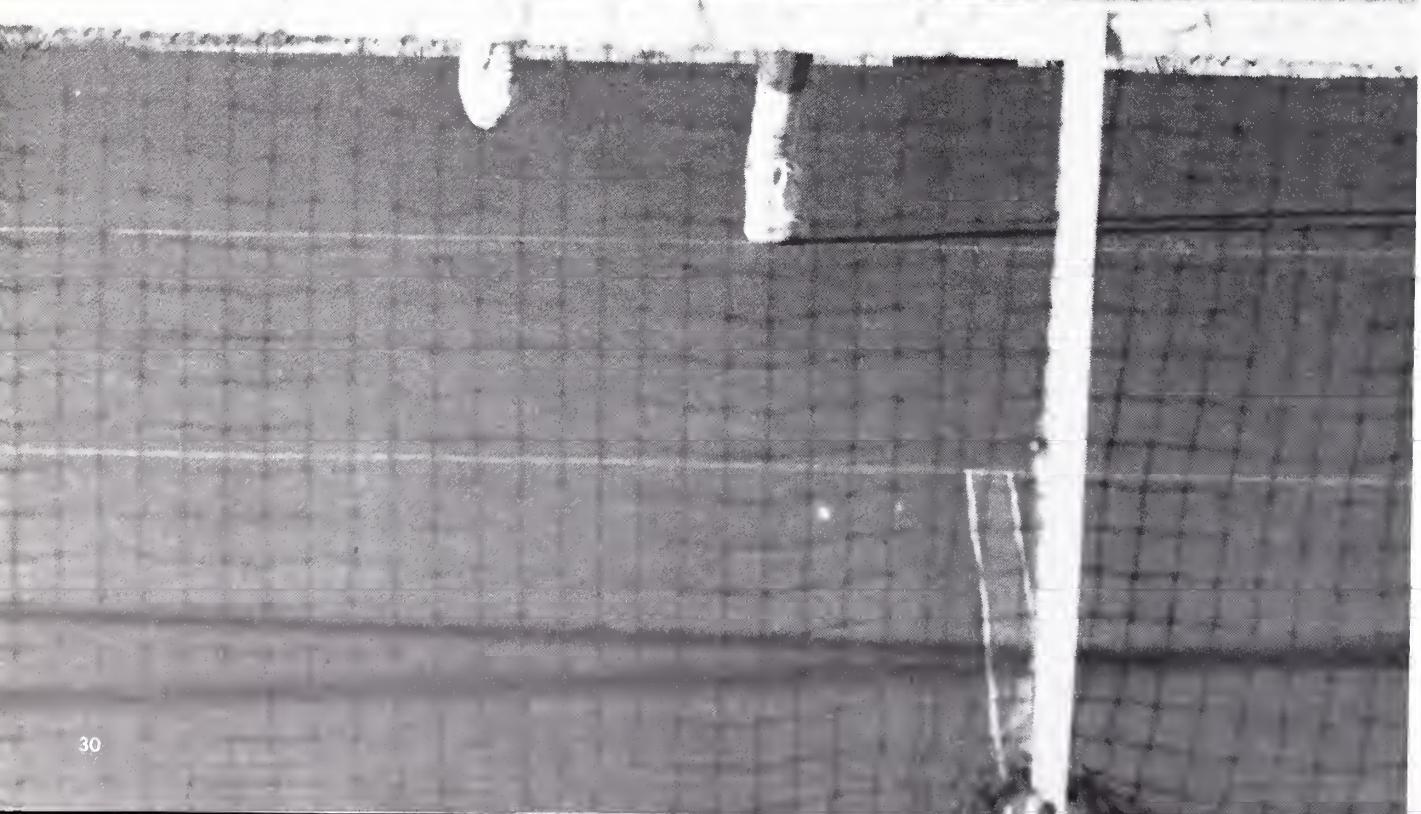

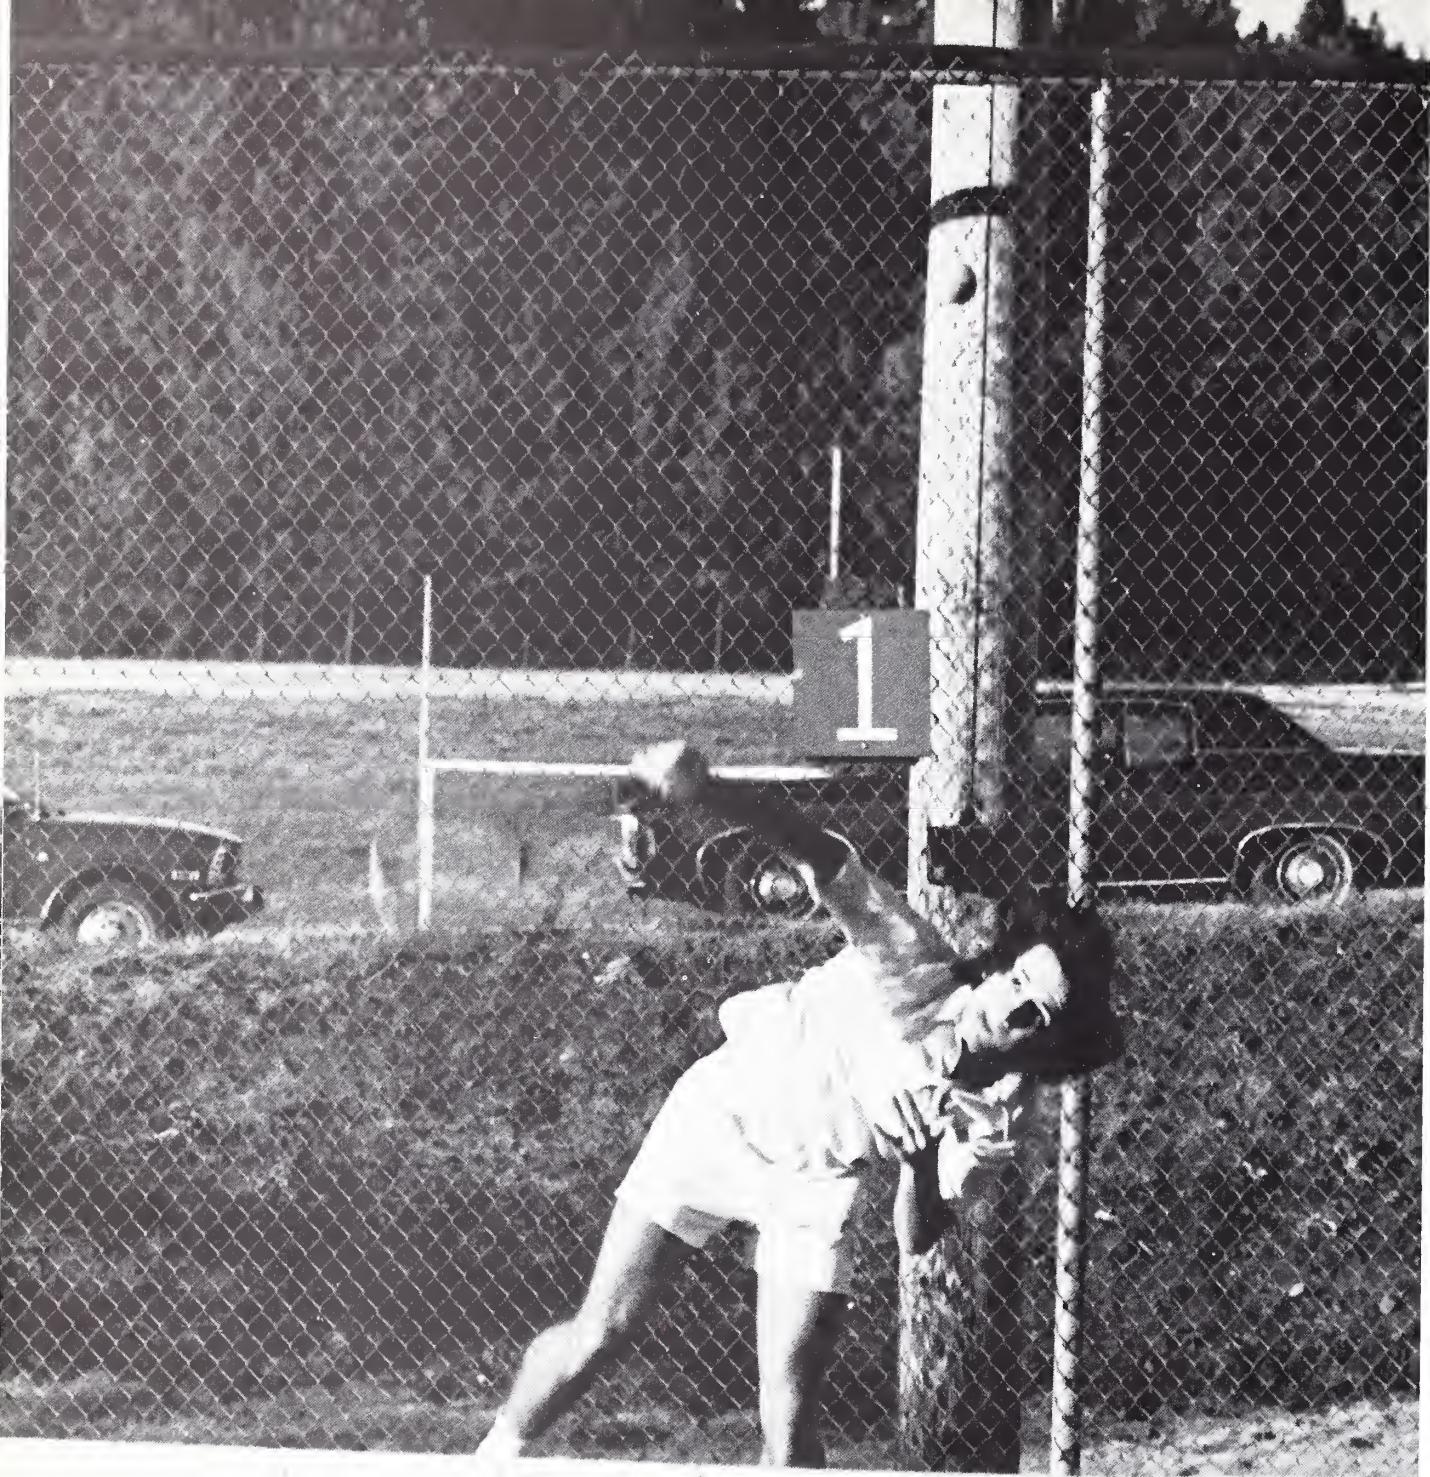

I Will Know My Pain

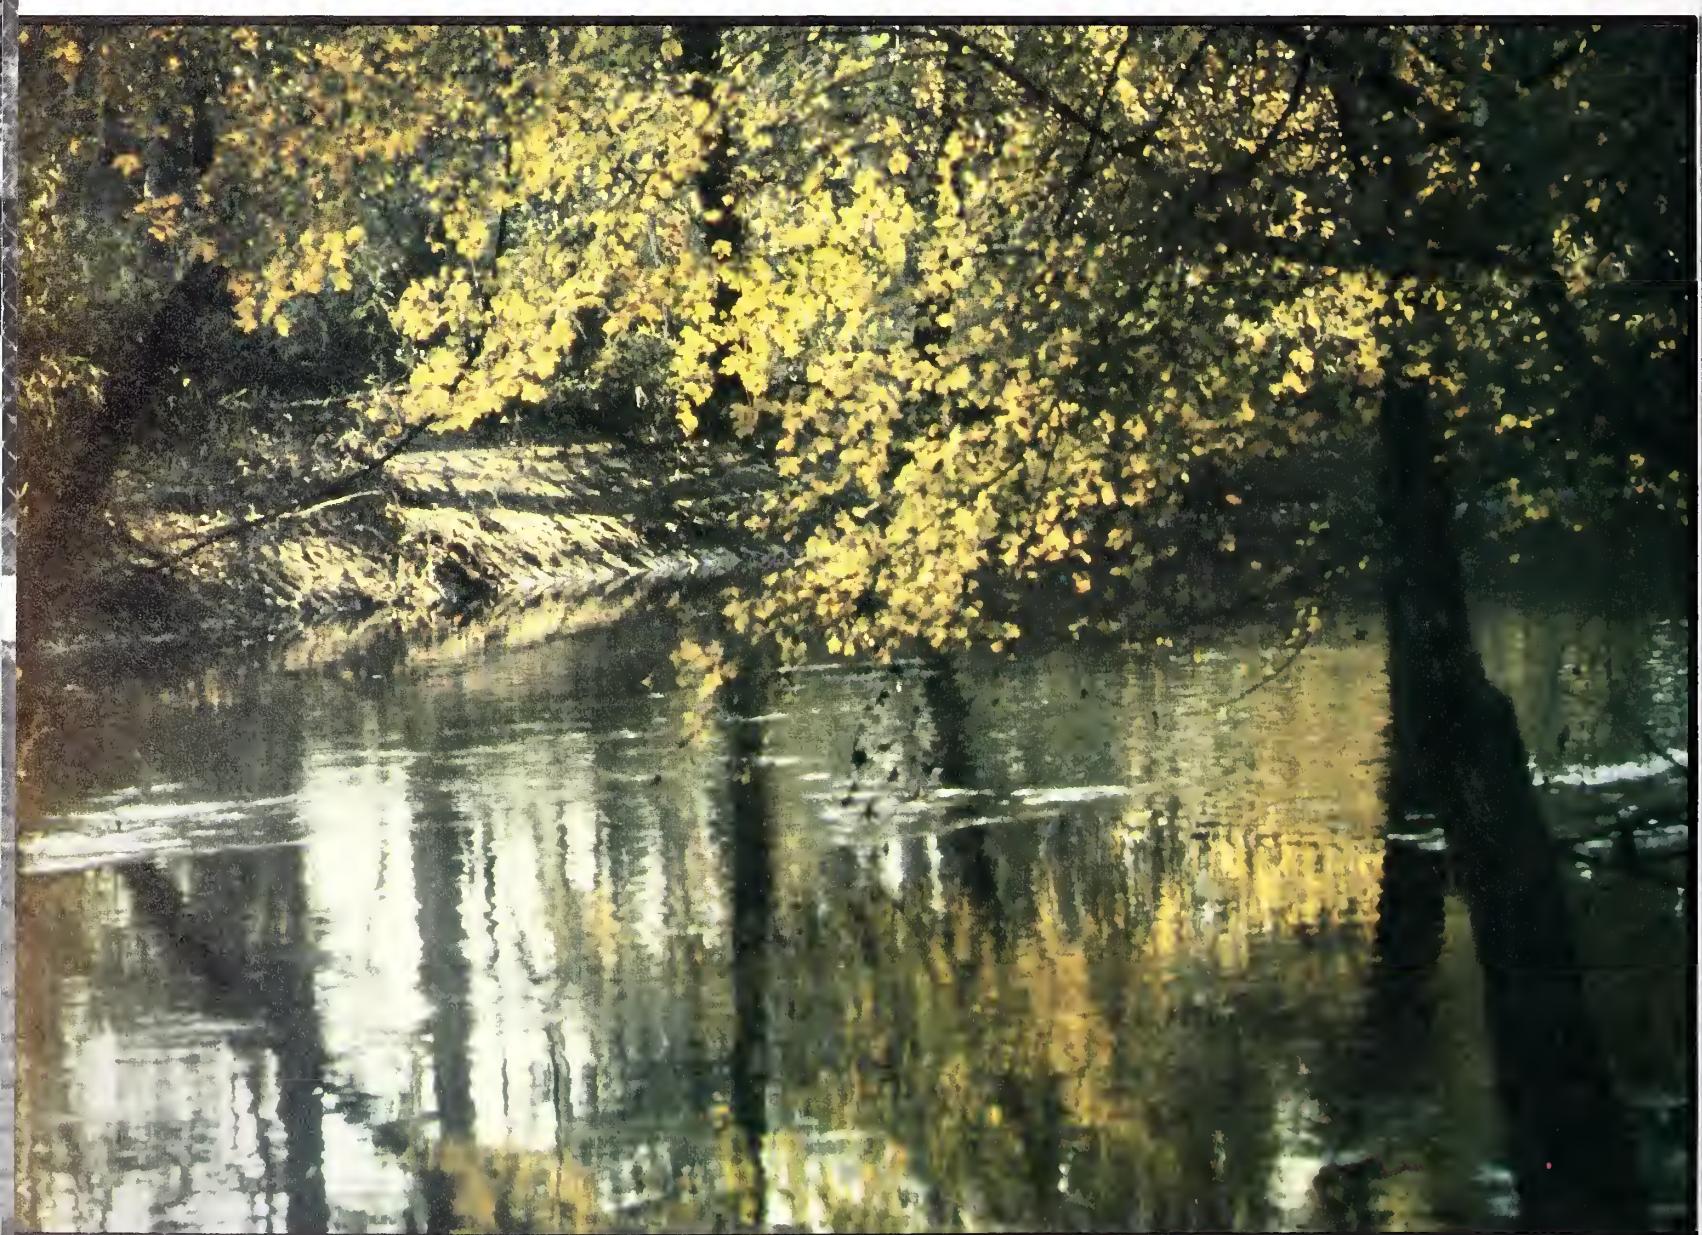

And Learn My Smiles

President of West Georgia College

Dr. Maurice Karlen Townsend

A new man moves into Sanford Hall July 1, 1975

Former Indiana State University administrator, Dr. Maurice Karlen Townsend, became the new president of West Georgia College on July 1, 1975.

During his first year in office, Dr. Townsend initiated several changes at the college.

Within two months after his arrival on campus, he announced plans to open Z-6, the food services building which had remained vacant since its completion in 1972, by summer of 1976.

However, acting on the advise of several committees he had set up to evaluate the present student center operations, he later announced that the new building would be opened during winter quarter.

Students, returning to the college in January, found that the new building was now open for use and that a bus service had been set up to transport them to the building, located on the west side of the campus.

Along with his announcements of use of the food service center, Dr. Townsend announced his plans for the utilization of the Student Center.

Besides housing several student activities offices and a snack bar, the President said that feasible plans had been made to move the post office and bookstore into the student center.

DIVISION OF THE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM OF GEORGIA

Carrollton, Georgia, 30117

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

404-834-4411

Dear Graduates:

This morning marks the culmination of serious and concentrated effort by more than four hundred men and women. You have conscientiously pursued undergraduate and graduate studies at West Georgia College, fulfilling academic requirements for the degrees established at this College. Your work has been significant, not only to yourselves but to society generally. It is with pride and congratulations that I turn now to the conferral ceremonies. Because you have earned your degrees, you also have our respect.

In many ways the noblest and most exacting professional life lies before those of you receiving education degrees. For you have selected the teaching of children or the ministering to those who are troubled in our society. All people are precious but infinitely more important to us all is the learning experience of our children for therein lies the future of our society and the health to those uncertain about the meaning of their lives for therein lies our social salvation. Be understanding but above all conduct yourselves in the highest professional sense: in your care will be our heritage.

To the graduate students, you have now attained another mile-stone in your education. This experience will have added new dimensions to your understanding, clear insights, and hopefully a greater sense of your worth to society. Whatever your professional commitment, be aware that this society increasingly depends upon educated men and women to lead it. Be cognizant of that fact and know that all knowledge serves us best when it is accompanied by humility and love.

To those of you who have studied in the arts, philosophy, the natural sciences, literature, or the social and behavioral sciences, these endeavors will have sharpened your social conscience and broadened your understanding. You have followed in the footsteps of many generations to know more about the human condition, how societies have lived and died, how cultures have blossomed and developed. Be aware that you now have begun the lifelong adventure of learning and understanding some of the deepest and most complex concerns of mankind: the quest of us all to find our purpose or meaning in time and place.

To the business graduates, you have chosen to prepare for responsibilities in the world of business or to teach others for those responsibilities. This Republic has always depended heavily upon commerce and industry for its strength and vision. Be aware that you must combine knowledge with moral and ethical conduct if you are to serve that world effectively.

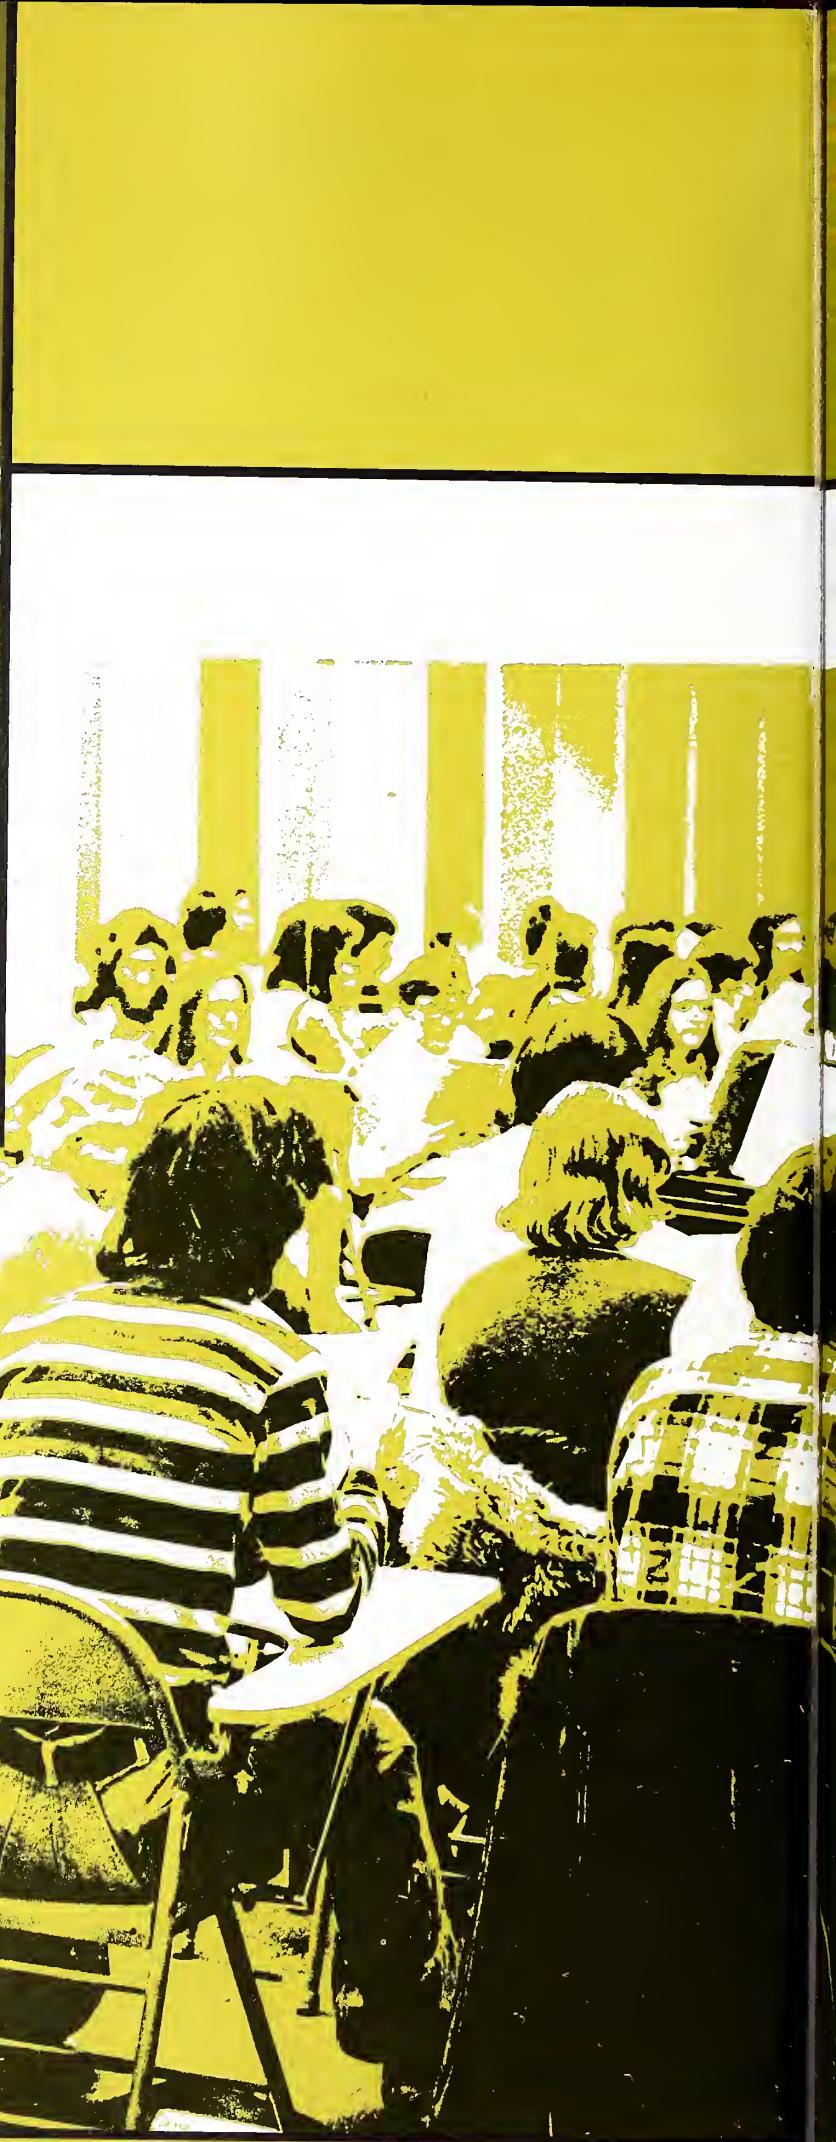

Best wishes to each of you in your endeavors.

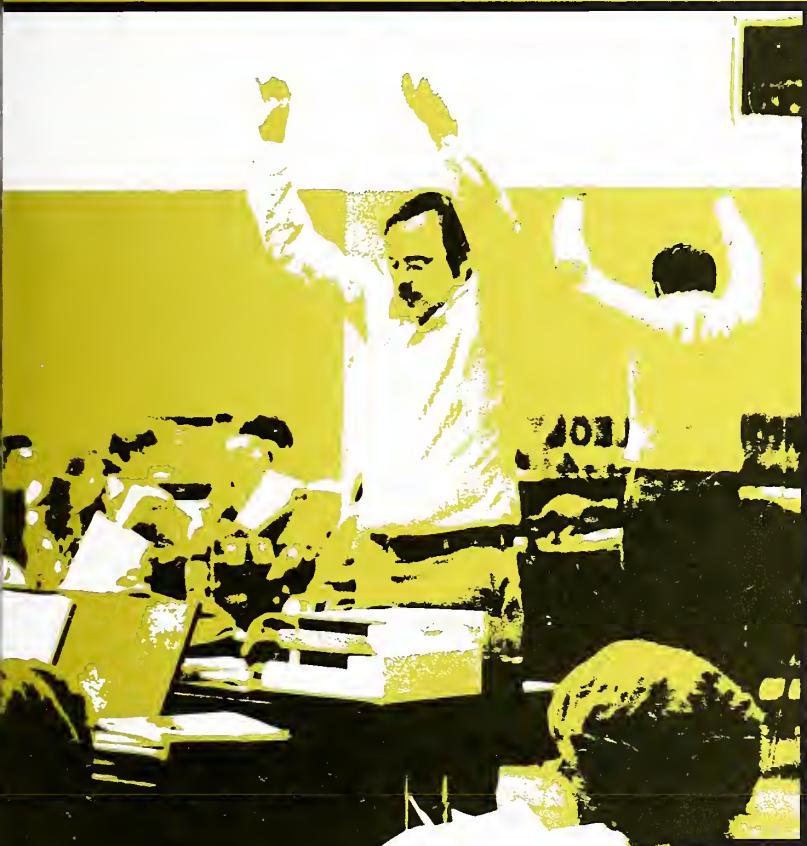

Sincerely,

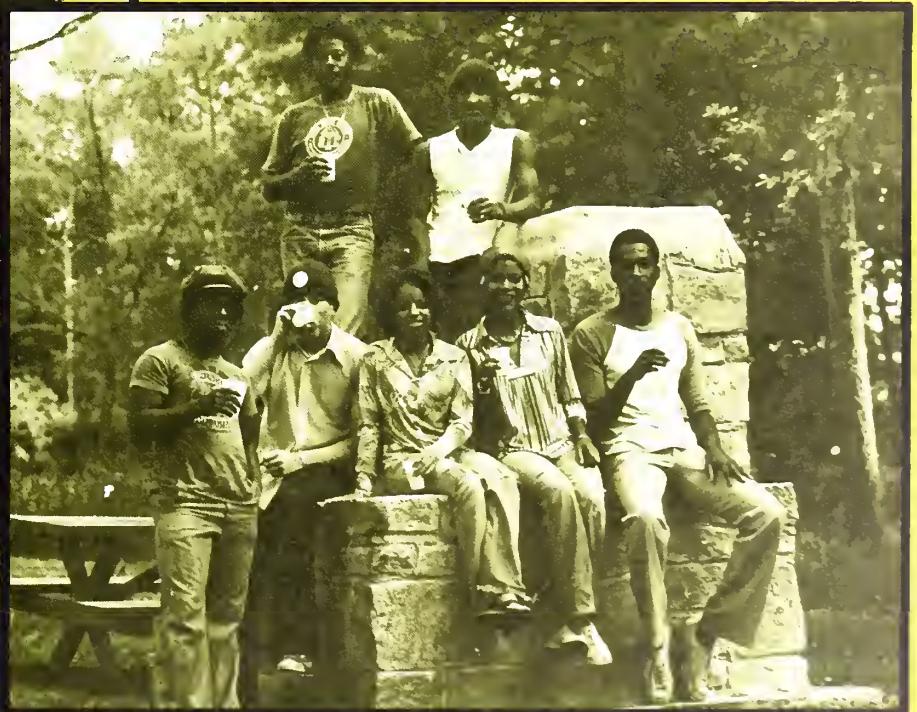

Maurice K. Townsend

Debaters Qualify for National Tournament for Three Years Straight

The West Georgia College Debate team, which has been in existence since 1934, has students who compete in tournaments throughout the United States.

The debaters have qualified for the national tournament during the last three years.

In addition to the normal competition, the debaters met a team of debaters from Oxford University in England to argue the importance of America's Declaration of Independence. The debate was presented as part of the Bicentennial Dialogue.

Delta Mu, SMENC bring music students together

The campus chapter of MENC is sponsored by the Music Educators National Conference, one of the largest educational groups in the country. MENC is for students who have chosen music as their profession and gives them the opportunity to prepare for full participation in the music profession upon graduation.

Delta Mu is a fraternity of women students who are majoring in music. Delta Mu is a service organization supporting music activities in the community. Delta Mu members usher at recitals and concerts, prepare the receptions given afterwards and sponsor several music events each year.

After Six Years, Workshop Members Keep On Singing

The Opera Workshop is now in its sixth year and, according to members, is "growing by leaps and bounds."

The members learn how to produce a musical and are regularly chosen for leads in musicals. Several members have won scholarships in the performing arts.

Projects include "The Medium," "The Telephone," and "Mikado in Swing Time."

The group is directed by Inge Manski Lundeen.

Providing experience For music majors — the Concert Band under the direction of James Collins

The Concert Band was established to serve as an outlet for musical expression for music majors. Participation is extended to non-music majors to help them expand their appreciation of music. The group performs concerts on campus and in the community.

The music and customs of Christmas in early America were the subject of this year's "Wassail and Carols" presented by the Chamber singers. Well-known throughout the state for their annual December presentation, the 16-voice group is busy throughout the year presenting concerts on and off-campus.

Gamma Theta Epsilon promotes interest in geography as a professional field

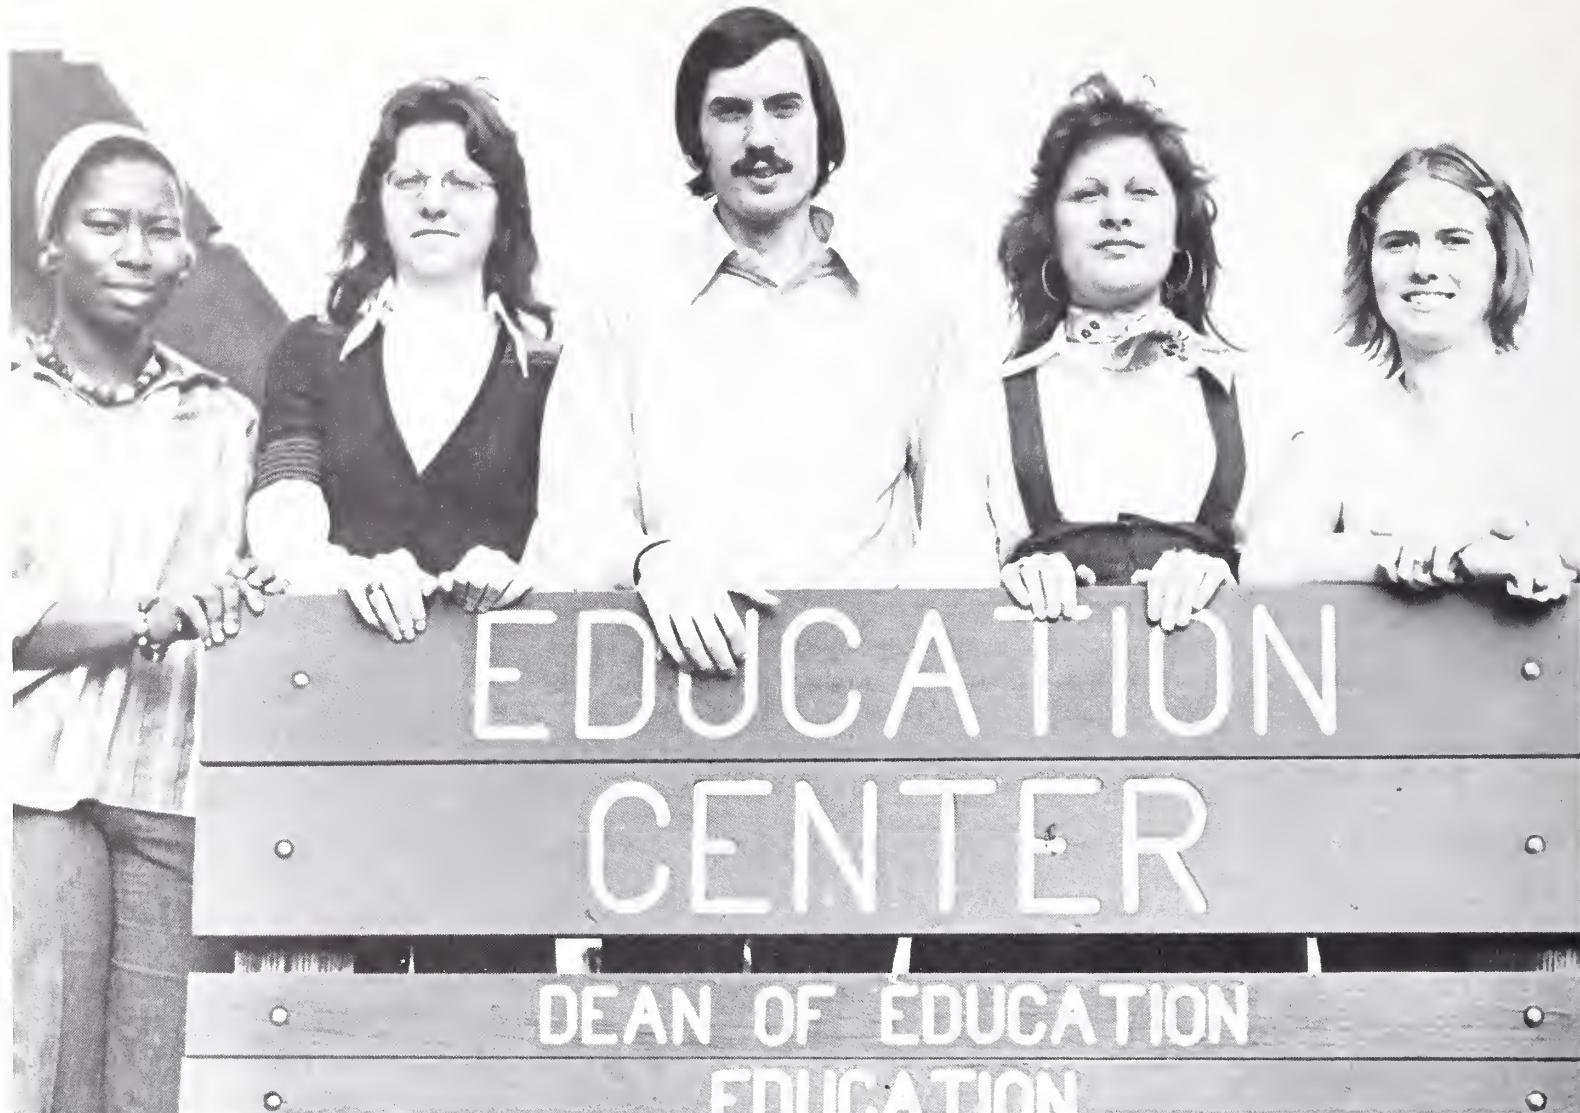

Gamma Theta Epsilon is an international honor society in the field of geography. It was founded to promote interest in geography as a discipline and to advance the status of geography as a professional field. Some of the activities planned by the group are sponsoring geography field trips and inviting guest speakers to the campus. The group advisor is Dr. David Weaver.

“Take nothing but pictures, leave nothing but footprints, kill nothing but time”
— the Grotto Club

The Grotto Club, a charter organization of the National Speleological Society, is dedicated to the research, exploration and conservation of caves. The group has been active on campus since 1965 and has increased its membership yearly. The group is advised by Tom Crawford, professor of geology.

BSU Members Travel Across Country, World Promoting Christian Service

The Baptist Student Union, a program for the students sponsored by the Baptist churches, participates in activities such as special mission projects, singing groups, drama groups, puppet ministries, choir, revival teams, and intramural sports.

Its purpose is to encourage church relationships and to minister God's love to the campus and community.

A small group of officers plan and direct the work of the BSU. They involve other students in leadership responsibility, these students in turn calling on still others to help.

There are no membership requirements. Every student is invited to participate in all of its activities.

Recreation Council Provides Practical Experience For Majors

Students majoring in recreation at the college belong to a professional student organization known as the Recreation Council of the HPER Club. The council exists to provide recreation majors with opportunities to gain experience which will benefit them when they enter their respective speciality concentrations in municipal, therapeutic, or social concerns recreation.

Council officers serve in capacities similar to administrative and supervisory personnel in a public recreation department.

The average number of majors during this year was eighty men and women who contributed hundreds of hours to community work. Special Olympics was the major service program.

The Volleyball Heroes: Another Great Year

Under the direction of Coach Dot McNabb, (right), the Volleyball Heroes entertained thoughts of yet another championship year. Seven first place trophies plus the state crown were awarded the ladies regionally. A tough regional tournament, in Gainesville, Florida, garnered the team a third place finish, marking the first time in five years that West Georgia was not represented in the nationals. It was, nevertheless, another outstanding season's performance from the Heroes.

West Georgians Harvested a Payroll of Over $26 Million From Our Carrollton Plants Last Year.

That's quite a bumper crop for a county which had a total payroll of less than $5 million in 1950, when the fields where our plants now sit were supporting a different variety of plants . . . cotton, corn, and pasture grass.

Today, Southwire operations have branched out into virtually every continent of the world . . . with sales in 1975 of over $350 million. And, the efforts of thousands of diligent Georgians are bearing fruit . . . Southwire is now the largest independently owned manufacturer of copper and aluminum rod, wire, and cable in the United States.

But despite our 30% average annual growth rate, our roots still lie in Carroll County. Southwire is resolved to strengthen these bonds with West Georgia, so that the future holds even more bountiful harvests for everyone.

The long and tedious job of putting together a yearbook is finished for another year.

No doubt, this yearbook will have its shortcomings and not everyone will like it.

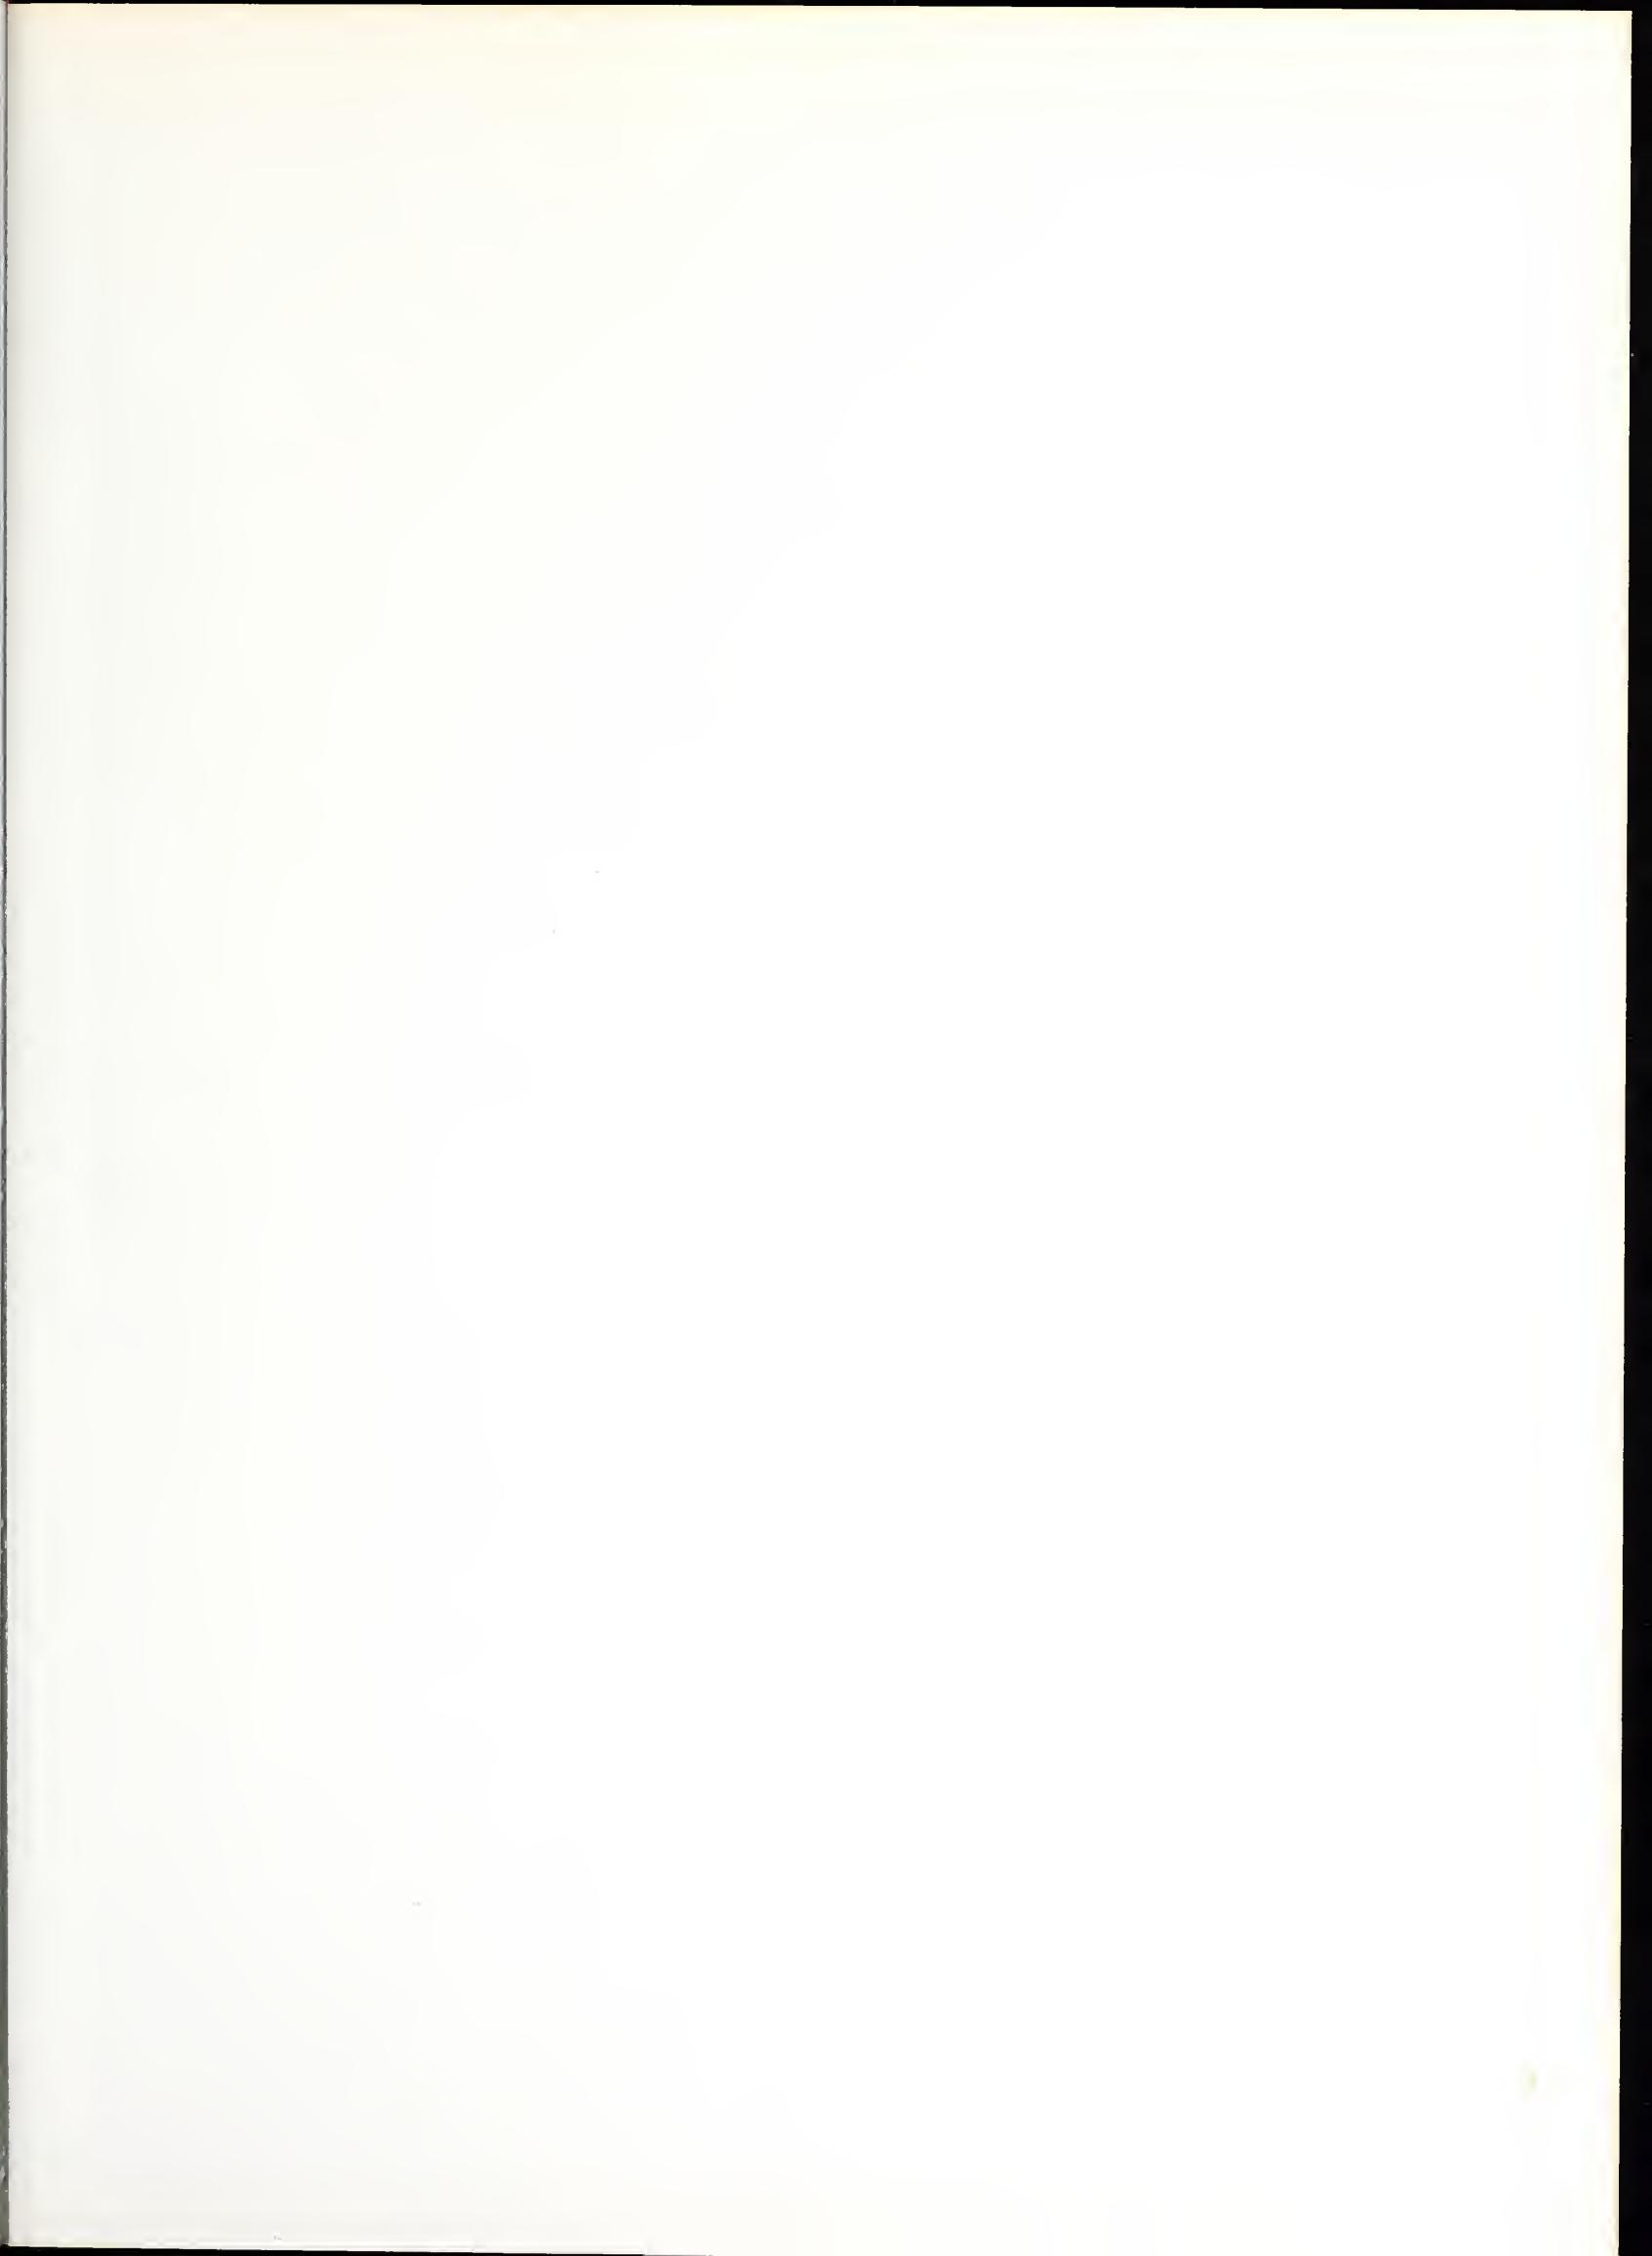

We, ourselves, even now see things we could have done to make this a better book.

However, an honest effort was made by the people involved in the book's creation.

Even with its shortcomings, we are proud of the work we have done here because facing many dilemmas, we have tried our best.

Our special thanks to Buell Cobb, advisor; Dean Charles Smith, assistant dean of Student Services; and Larry Naylor, representative for Taylor Publishing Company.

Respectfully yours,
Nancy Badertscher, editor
